

The game is called 'Would you Rather.'

Take turns to pick a card and read it out loud. It gives you two choices and you can only pick one – the one you would rather have or do. It gets you thinking (important for learning), talking (important for explaining your ideas) and laughing (important for feeling happy). It can be played anywhere, at any time and you can even play it without the cards once you get the idea of the game.

On the next page are your 'Would you Rather?' cards to cut out and play with!
